

Please don't lessen the No-Call list for Wisconsin. I used to get call after call, and it was extremely annoying as I work two jobs and am a very busy person. I don't need what little free time I have to be interrupted by these unwanted calls. Many will not give up even if I say I'm not interested. I understand business and their need to market to sell their product, but I don't do business over the phone unless I call them. Many telemarketers say they can't remove me from their calling list; they have to transfer me to a supervisor to handle it, so even more of my time is wasted.
